

GET STARTED

Orion Feast, a renowned multicuisine restaurant, is committed to providing a world-class dining experience with a diverse selection of gourmet dishes. To enhance operational efficiency and optimize inventory management, the company places a strong emphasis on forecasting order quantities. Orion Feast categorizes days into two distinct groups: Weekdays (Monday to Thursday) and Weekends (Friday to Sunday), recognizing the variation in customer behavior across these periods.

For the upcoming four weeks, Orion Feast is meticulously analyzing historical order data to predict demand patterns for both weekdays and weekends. By leveraging this data-driven approach, the restaurant aims to forecast the quantity of orders with precision, ensuring timely availability of ingredients and maintaining exceptional service standards, while maximizing customer satisfaction and boosting its market presence.

OBJECTIVE

As an analyst at Orion Feast, your responsibility is to forecast order quantities for the next four weeks, segmented into Weekdays (Monday to Thursday) and Weekends (Friday to Sunday). In your demand forecasting, you will utilize the average growth rate when a clear upward or downward trend is evident. If no distinct trend is identified, you will apply a weighted average growth rate, with the highest weight given to Week 4's growth rate to ensure the most accurate predictions.

Additionally, management requires a thorough analysis of the growth trends for each sub-category and individual menu item independently. This detailed breakdown will offer valuable insights into the performance of specific dishes, enabling Orion Feast to fine-tune inventory management, refine menu offerings, and cater more precisely to customer preferences. Your comprehensive analysis will play a pivotal role in forecasting demand with accuracy, streamlining operations, and elevating the overall dining experience. These insights are essential for Orion Feast to maintain its operational excellence and sustain its competitive advantage in the dynamic restaurant industry.
